Hidden Champions of the 21st Century
Role Models of Druckerian Leadership

1st Global Peter Drucker Forum

Prof. Dr. Hermann Simon
Vienna, November 19, 2009
What is “Druckerian Leadership”?

Leadership based on concrete values:

- Closeness to customer
- Loyalty of employer and employee
- Long-term orientation/continuity
- Clear vision/purpose
- Creation of new value: Innovation
- Exemplary conduct of leaders
Where do we find these values?

- In large corporations?

- In small/mid-sized companies?
Who is no. 1 in exports?

- China
- USA
- Japan

Key facts of 1200 Hidden Champions

- 1 million new jobs in last ten years
- Annual growth of 10% p.a., revenue 2.5 times larger than 10 years ago
- More than 100 new €-revenue billionaires
- Sharp increase of world market share
- Massive wave of innovation
Why are the Hidden Champions successful?

How do they differ from large firms?

What can we learn from them?
Goals

Peter Drucker:

“Every enterprise requires simple, clear and unifying objectives. The goals have to be clear, public and often reaffirmed to provide a common vision. What we really mean by this is the commitment throughout an enterprise to common objectives and common values. Management’s job is to think through, set and exemplify those objectives, values and goals.”

Chemetall

“The goal of Chemetall is the worldwide technology and marketing leadership.”
“We want to become and stay no. 1 in the world.”

Lesson 1

Success always begins with ambitious goals. The Hidden Champions of the 21st century go for growth and market leadership. This is the fuel that drives them forward.
Focus and depth

Peter Drucker:

“To know one’s strengths, to know how to improve them, and to know what one cannot do.”

“The single-minded ones are the only true achievers. They carry out a ‘mission’. Whenever anything is being accomplished, it is being done by a monomaniac with a mission.”
“We always had one customer and will only have one customer in the future: the pharmaceutical industry – we only do one thing, but we do it right.”
“We will do only one thing, but we do it better than anyone else”
Deep instead of broad: A focused strategy

The case of Winterhalter

Dishwashers for Hospitals
Dishwashers for Schools
Dishwashers for Hotels/Restaurants
Dishwashers for Companies
Dishwashers for Organisations

Dishwashers
Water Conditioners
Detergents
Service

Broad

Deep
Deep value chain

- No outsourcing of core competencies
- Strong outsourcing of non-core activities
- Own machine shops
- Very secretive in R&D
- Avoidance of strategic alliances
Lesson 2

Only focus and concentration lead to world class. The Hidden Champions see the market definition as part of their strategy. They are highly focused and deep rather than broad.
Globalization

Peter Drucker:

“Every institution in the knowledge society has to be globally competitive.”

“There is only one economic unit, the world.”
The Hidden Champions strategy

- Specialization in product und know-how -

Global selling and marketing
Globalization has only just begun

Word exports per capita (US-$)

- 1900: 6
- 1950: 23
- 1980: 437
- 2000: 985
- 2007: 2150
Globalization: Kaercher

Lesson 3

The Hidden Champions combine specialization in product and know-how with global selling and marketing. Globalization is the growth booster for them. They serve the target markets through their own subsidiaries.
Marketing and innovation

Peter Drucker:

“Business has only two functions: Marketing and innovation.”
Innovation

Peter Drucker:

“If innovation does not aim at leadership from the beginning, it is unlikely to be innovative enough.”

Driving forces of innovation

Large corporations

- Market: 50%
- Technology: 31%
- Market & Technology: 19%

Hidden Champions

- Market: 21%
- Technology: 14%
- Market & Technology: 65%
Marketing/closeness to customer

Peter Drucker:

“Marketing is the whole business seen from the customer’s point of view.”
Marketing/closeness to customer

- Closeness to customer is seen as the greatest strength (88.7%)

- Five times as many employees (25-50%) have regular customer contacts compared to large companies (5-10%)
Value and pricing

- Strategies are value-driven, not price-driven
- Price premium 10-15%
- Avoidance of price wars
Competitive advantages

Peter Drucker:

“Any institution has to measure itself against the standards set by each industry’s leaders anyplace in the world.”
Competitive advantages of the Hidden Champions

- Product quality
- Economy
- Punctuality
- Advice
- Closeness-to-Customer Service
- Systems Integration

- Made in Germany
- Price
- Flexibility
- Distribution
- Cooperation with suppliers

Lesson 4

The Hidden Champions are highly innovative and very close to their customers. They hold strong competitive positions. They deliver true value to their customers.
Family businesses

Peter Drucker:

“The majority of businesses everywhere are family-controlled and family-managed.”

70% of the Hidden Champions are family-owned.
“A company behaves socially responsible if it makes profit.”

Heinz Dürr

German Hidden Champion-entrepreneur

- Return on equity: 13.6%
- Equity ratio: 41.9%
Employees

Peter Drucker:

“The basic task of management is to make people productive.”
Employees

- “More work than heads”
- High performance cultures
- High qualification
- Low turnover
Higher qualification

In the last ten years, the share of university graduates has more than doubled.
Turnover rates

USA 30.6%
Austria 9.0%
Switzerland 8.8%
Germany 7.3%
Daimler 5.3%
Hidden champions 2.7%

Leaders

- Identity of mission and being
- Leadership
  - authoritarian in the principles
  - participative, flexible in the details
- Young into power
- More women in top positions
- High continuity (average CEO tenure 20 years)
Lesson 5

The ultimate secret of the Hidden Champions’ success lies in their leaders. They lead authoritarian in the principles, but flexible in the details. Young CEOs and women play a more important role than in large companies. Continuity is very high.

The ultimate lesson

The “Hidden Champions of the 21st Century” go their own ways – more decisively and successfully than ever.

They are true role models of leadership in the best sense Peter Drucker had in mind.
